THE TOOTH WEAR COURSE

WITH DR. KOSTAS KARAGIANNOPOULOS

APRIL 10 & 11, 2025

The prevalence of tooth wear is increasing and fully guided composites offer versatile solutions for restoring worn teeth. We will explore the A-Z of the injection moulding technique (IMT) and apply it for the complex needs of managing the worn dentition. We will discuss opening the vertical dimension, create a new occlusion and maximise the potential of additive direct restorations.

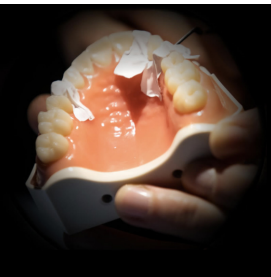

The two-day programme is designed to take you chronologically through the patient's journey, from initial assessment to fully guided, interceptive treatment and right through to maintenance and recalls.

OBJECTIVES

- Discuss indications, advantages and limitations of Injection Moulding Technique (IMT)
- Practice monoshade and layering techniques
- Describe all technical and clinical steps
- Learn the essential occlusal considerations including the Dahl concept
- Manage a tooth wear patient in terms of awareness, expectations and consent

PRACTICAL HANDS-ON

- Photography specific to the worn dentition
- Smile design of 4 wear cases on a tablet with a stylus
- Anterior deprogramming and occlusal registration
- Injection moulding for the worn dentition: monoshade and layering
